Such a course has nothing to recomm and it. It will not serve the purpose of evasion. It has not even any plausibility.

The New York banks, contrary to remonstrances and the distance of common sense, obstinately insisted on their ability to continue specie paymants. Some of their depositors, who were independent of their frowns or smiles, good-naturedly lent their failt to the note-bolders to bring the banks to reason. In a ringle day nearly half of their specie was drawn out, and the next morning all the banks anapended. The depositors then restored to the banks a terge part of the specie that they had drawn out. The immediate effect of the suspension was a great and juyous relief to the whole community. Everybody, now rees that the obstinate folly of the banks in refusing to suspend resulted in nothing but the himw zees that the abstinate folly of the banks in re-ting to suspend resulted in nothing but the him-ting to suspend resulted in nothing but the him-ting to suspend resulted in nothing of some hundreds, the banks of Philadelphia induc-

It is evident to better then none, and, with all dee respect to Mr. all lutelligent men that such a course would only Marshall's splendid powers, we shall esteem our ecipitate the necessity for a suspension of specie selves happy if he presents us with the Philosophy symmetry, and would speedily reader suspension in of History at any time, or in any shape. It is evident that the banks not only must continue to contract. As we have said bebre, for all practical purposes they are now actualbe not all practical perfects of liquidation. Their penture and carried the first and carried the rise and carried the liquidation of apecie payments is of no benefit now to themselves or to the business community. It is a positive lajury to the public, and benefits no early Church. The scheme of his Discourse was exeapt the Cincinnati brokers, who have a consupply the State Bank of Ohio with specie in return for Kentucky bank notes. It is well the dryest and the trikest theme. The same lack of known that Kinny, Espr. & Co., the reckless monv anto-dating a protest, have drawn largely upon of expression, which, among other things, had dis-te specie held by the Kontucky banks. These broaving precured a notary there to perjure himself kers, who are now the grantest and almost the only runners on our hanks, have drawn the specie from hem principally to fill a contract to furnish specie to Bank of Ohio in return for Kon ank notes, and in fact almost the only benefit to be derived from a continuance of specie payments on his subject, however imbued with the spirit of ele r specie in behalf of banks in other States,

The argument of the Commonwealth furnishes in would have liked to be eloquent if he had bee timed a cagout mason for immediate suspension. It simply this: If the banks continue to pay specie To those keenly sensitive to the beauties of orate they can't expand, they can't increase their learn the impression was unpleasent and nonetimes ever painful. Why, we cannot fortear to ask, does Mr both leans and circulation. This contraction Marshall inflict this injustice upon himself, and ups the chief cause of our present difficulties. It has ten place at a reason of the year when even in resperous times an expansion is required to move rens, and without such expansion now, or som for it, the crops cannot be moved, and Mr. Marshall is too gifted a men to be tried by any debts can't be paid, and rain and distress in all but the loftiest standard, and, judged by such a branches of arade and industry must cases. The standard, he surely owes much, very much, to the frut etep toward a remody for all this is to stop the tion by a suspension of specie payments. THE LITTLE OF BANK SUSPENSIONS.—The ones-

It was evident that the Democratic Governor of Maryland was conscious that he should need external aid to conquer lialtimore, and on this account and a requisition upon Governor Wise of Virginia, for three thousand stand of arms, which a telegraphic dispatch from Richmond says have been forwarded to Maryland. Either of himself or through some of his friends, he askel assistance also from the Federal Government, but the unhallowed act of the President, which resulted in shedding the bigod of Innocent people at the last Washington election, has not yet been forgotten, and if he should so far forget, in his partisan titterness, the sovereign rights of a State, and lend the Federal power to subdue a portion of its citizens, it would add a disgraceful stigman to this administration, and unquestionally cause a collision botween the Federal and State governments. This capacity of the soil to absorb ammedia and whire acid depends greatly upon being kept lone, finely pulverined, or frequently greatly upon being kept lone, finely pulverined, or frequently stirred. Every acre which allows water to percolate freely benefits equall by the fertilizing elements in the rain. But whence comes the additional luxuriance which vegetation puts on when the land is abundantly worked? Prof. Way says that this greater luxuriance of crops on well stirred land comes from the alworption of animonia, &c., from the air, and that the air anyphies larger quantities than the rain. It is some confirmation of this practical lesson from scientific investigations that the more frequently and copiously rain falls in any single month the greater is the quantity of alimnonia and nitric acid in the rain of that month, as if these were collecting in the air all the while and ready to derecend with the aris all the while and ready to derecend with the rain gives and adily supplies, while the rain gives only occasional on s.

The dispatch received to-day is from Leavena-orth. Considerable measiness hall been entertained by the department respecting these troops. The dispatch received to-day is from Leaven E. H. Alexander, commanding Tenth infantry. He says:

I respectifylly submit the following remarks upon the march of the eight companies of the lenth infantry under my command from Fort Leavenworth to this place, a distance of six hundred and twenty-five miles. The battalion started from Fort Leavenworth to the Platte river was misde within the time allowed by Gen. Hartey's orders, and say, perhaps, the most exempt from loss and accident ever known. With a train of 97 wagons and over 1600 animals, but five mules have been lost—one by straying and four by death—and not a wagon has been thocken. The fourney slong the Platte was one of great ense, as the road is good and grass abundant everywhern. The men and animals improved in strength remark and virtuality on hand, of our own make, all styles and bas averaged taselve. This, in a command of the bundred, is very small. No serious sickness has prevailed.

The order of march has been strictly preserved, and the column marched by platoon pouls with regular intervals, at a rate of 90 or 100 steps per minute. The calculation of the column marched by platoon pouls with regular intervals, at a rate of 90 or 100 steps per minute. I have adopted the plan of detailing a company for guard, and posting it in the most convenient place by which the command have attended to post pickets and sominals so as to guard every approach. This plan saves many details, lessens labor, and excites a spirit of emulation which insures great vigilinge. The officers of the command have attended faithfully to their duttes, and many have shown great poaces of enduring futigue, being on foot all the time. I hope to give a fivorable report upon my arrival at Sait Lake City.

I may be excused in expressing the pride I feel in the successful accomplishment, by my regiment, of so much of its lirst arihous duty; and I confidently express the belief that unless some very unforseen accident occurs it will reach the Territory of Utaki in a condition of perfect efficiency and discipline.
